It was then decided by Kilrain's friends to make the place of meeting Toronto.

JOE LANNON AND GODFREY.

They Make Arrangements in Boston for a Pifteen-Round Contest.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] Boston, Jan. 3 .- Joe Lannon and George Godfrey met at the Police News office to-day and decided to settle the question as to who is the better man.

Three years ago they met at the Cribb Club and the result was a draw. Lannon was sick at the time, and he expressed himself as being confident that he could defeat Godfrey when he was feeling Several attempts have since been made to get them together, but not until this week were there any signs that the men would face each other in the ring.

Several days ago, the directors of the Athenian Club offered to give a $500 purse for them to spar twelve rounds. Billy Mahoney, the backer of Lannon, said that he would give $1,000 for a lifteen-round contest, The proposition was accepted by Godfrey and at neon to day both men met Mahoney and at noon to-day both men met Mahoney at the Police News office.

After a few minutes' talk they signed an agreement to spar fifteen rounds Feb. 4, with regulation gloves, for a $1,000 purse, the winner to take all.

When it came to selecting a referee they could not agree. Godfrey then said that there was one man in this city that he was willing to have as referee, and he was Champion John L. Sullivan. Said he:

"I don't know whether he has any feelings against me, but I am coufident that in the contest he will give me a fair show.

"Sullivan will suit me," said Lannon. If the big fellow will not act, the men are to meet fifteen days before the contest and select another to officiate in his place.

It was also agreed that neither man shall spar for a purse until after this event.

AN ATHLETIC BARRIER REMOVED.

Harvard Students May Now Enter Contests With Professionals.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] BOSTON, Jan. 3.—The Committee, composed of three graduates, three members of the Faculty and three undergraduates, who have the the regulation of athletic sports at Harvard College, voted last night to repeal that section of their regulation which forbade any college ath letic organization to play or compete with pro-fessionals.

In its place a regulation was adopted, making the assent of the Committee necessary to all the assent of the Committee necessary to all contents by any college athletic organization. It is generally understood by the repeal of the old regulation that no objection will now be made to a contest with any team on the mere ground that it is professional, so that the nine is now practically free to play with any of the professional teams. professional teams.

TIMAYENIS SURRENDERED.

His Bondsman Gives Him Up in Court-He Has Not Yet Shot Dickson.

Telemaque T. Timayenis, the Greek author, had not shot James Dickson, his partner in the Minerva Publishing Company, up to 3,30 this afternoon.

The parties were in the Tombs Court at that time, Timayenis having been surrendered by his bondsman, and a new bondsman, Mr. F. B. Morris, qualified. The charges of embez-zlement against Timayenis will come up to-

Robert Elder Hanged for the Murder Mrs. Harrison Will Lead the Proof His Father.

The Execution To-Day in the She Writes a Letter Accepting Atlantic County Jail.

SEPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Jau. 3,—Robert Elder was hanged here to day for the murder of his father. The drop fell at 12.07. The murderer made no statement. He showed no emotion

Elder spent his last night on earth preparing to meet his doom. At 10 P. M. he was visited by his fourteen-year-old brother, Thomas Elder, and his sister, Maggie Mc-Cullough.

He received them cordially and had a talk with them which lasted for nearly half an bour. He expressed to them his sorrow for what he had done, but said that he was prepared to die.

At midnight Elder sat down to the little

At midnight Elder sat down to the little table in his cell and wrote his last letter, which he put in his pocket. Then he sat in the corridor and smoked cigars until 1 o'clock, when he was induced by the death watch to enter his cell and go to bed.

Previous to retiring he spent some time in prayer with the Revs. John E. Peters and Allen H. Brown, both Pre-byterian ministers. Elder promised Sheriff Johnson that he would be up at 6 o'clock in the morning, and made an appointment with the ministers to meet him in his cell at that hour. He tossed about his cot during the night, and apparently did not sleep well.

Elder was up at 6 o'clock and began preparing his toilet. He carefully arranged his new black suit, but wore no collar or tre. He also carefully brushed his har. Sheriff Johnson was one of his first visitors. When the Sheriff asked him how he felt, and what he would have for breakfast, he replied:

"I 'eel pretty good, but do not think that I can eat much of anything."

His breakfast, which was subsequently brought to him, consisted of coffee and toost. He saked the Sheriff not to pinion his arms until he arrived at the gallows, and his request was granted.

The condemued man gave the Sheriff the quest was granted.

The condemned man gave the Sheriff the following letter, which he wished to be made public:

I do not claim to be entirely innocent of my crime, but I do claim to be innocent of any intent to murder, and God knows that I am feeling that he knows that I am. I know that I shall be forgiven, for God has promised to all who will come to him and repent that he will abundantly pardon all their sins. I wish to publicly thank the many friends who have shown their friendship to me in my great trouble.

"From those of whom I expected friendship I have received none. I mean some of my relatives. I do not wonder that my petition to the Court of Pardons is not granted when my own relatives did not sign it, for I have not heard of a person by the name of Elder who signed the petition.

a person by the name of Ender who signed enpetition.

I hold no hard feelings against any one for what might have seemed like an injustice to me.
I am at peace with the world I hope, as I know I am with my God. The happiest moment of my life would be if I thought I could make one poor soul feel as happy as I do on this last day of my life. My loss will be somebody's gain, and I hope as any young man who may have done as I have done will take warning from my punishment. I am ready and willing to die. Good-by.

ROBERT ELDER, fr., Atlantic Co. Jail.

The Story of the Crime.

The crime for which Elder paid the death penaity was the killing of his father, William John Elder, on Saturday, Aug. 4 last, when he fired four shots in rapid succession from an English buildog revolver which he had purchased in Philadelphia a few days before. Every ball took effect in the breast of the victim and caused death almost instantly. Elder, who was a slave to drink, had on several occasions threatened the life of his

A Quarrel Over a Dollar that Made a Will Mrs. Cleveland's No-Bustle Ad. herents Be Put to Rout ?

LET THE MERRY WAR PROCEED.

Here's an issue that discounts the tariff-at east in the feminine mind.

It is Bustle or No-Bustle. Mrs. Cleveland, as is well known, leads the anti-bustle forces; but here comes Mrs. President-elect Harrison to the rescue of the

MRS. PRESIDENT HARRISON'S NEW BUSTLE. other faction with a cute little political document which reads like this:

THE PRO-BUSTLE PRONUNCIAMENTO. C. Shelby, 348 Canal street, New York:

Please secept my thanks for the bustle that came to-day. Please also accept return for your heliday greetings. Very truly, CARRIE S. HARRISON.

Indianapolis, Dec. 26, 1888. That settles it. Bustle or No Bustle? is the issue of the future.

Mr. Christopher C. Shelby, had sent a 'Cora" bust'e to Mrs. Harrison just before Christmas, and the above autograph letter, now published for the first time, was received direct from Indianapolis. In view of the great big free advertisement Mr. Shelby's bustle thus obtains, it is suggested that he might appropriately change the pleasing name "Cora" to the equally pleasing Christian name "Carrie."

THE BEGINNING OF HOSTILITIES. Mrs. Frances Folsom Cleveland had se lected the ever glorious Fourth of July last as a fitting day on which to organize the No Bustle party, and appeared in a charming gown conspicuous alike for its grace and its lack of the bitherto fashionable article of wardrobe.

No more fit leader for the No-Bustle party could have been chosen in all this broad land, for Mrs. Cleveland's beautiful outlines need no artificial assistant.

Hundreds of the loveliest ladies of the Rerundreds of the loveliest ladies of the itepublic naturally rallied to her support, and it is said by Dame Rumor that the masculine sentiment is secretly but almost unanimously in her favor.

However this may be, an incipient rebellion was on foot among some of womankind.
And so Mrs. Harrison, with the true spirit of a leader, rushes into the fray, and, snatching
the standard of the opposition, bears it aloft.
So the battle will go on apace. So the battle will go on apace.

THE GREAT STRUGGLE IN PROSPECT. Of course there will be clubs organized, and the merits of this great question will be thoroughly discussed before another grand National struggle.

The bustie clubs will probably take for names the titles of the bustles most nopular in the several localities or elements of the Thus there will be the "Langtry Bustle Club," composed entirely of actresses, the wives of actors, stars of the amateur firmament and dudes.

The "Cora" will follow exactly the style ment and dudes.

The "Cora" will follow exactly the style of the real leader of the party. The "Duchess," the "Empress" and the "Vere de Vere" will be suitable names for clubs composed of the wealthier ladies of the party. The "Bopeep" and "Fairy Fan" clubs will be favored by young unmarried girls, and the "Go-as-You-Please" and "Newspaper Bustle" clubs will have their appropriate members.

Newspaper Busiles Cities will have their appropriate members.

The nation breathlessly awaits the further progress of this great contest.

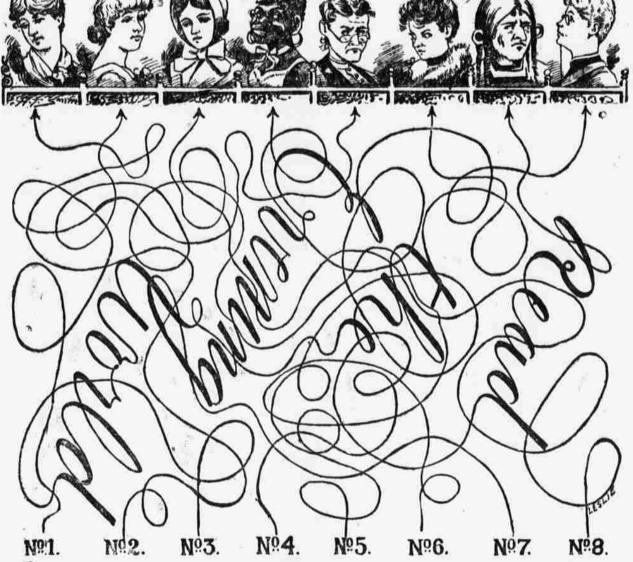

What is tariff tinkering? what is a war in Hayti? what is anything compared to this great controversy between the Pro-Bustles and the No-Bustles?

Big Boston Cathedral Interior Turned Into an Enchanted Bower for the Nuptini Occasion-Great Trees Shut Out the Daylight and Grand Organ Music Thrilled All Who Heard It.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] Boston, Jan. 3. - Just before noon to-day the Cathedral of the Holy Cross witnessed the most stately marriage that has been solemnized in Boston for many a day, and, indeed, rarely in its history has the ing a wedding as that of Lawrence Barrett's daughter to Mary Anderson's brother. Washington street, in the vicinity of the church, was thronged with a curious crowd eager to get a neep at the brilliantly attired guests as they alighted from the long line of carriages and disappeared within the canopy that led from the pavement to the Cathedral cortals.

The great interior, with its sombre tints and its painted windows, centred the light of its gas jets and candles upon the chancel and that part of the auditorium immediately surrounding it, where, walled in by lines of tall palms and examples the sware seated a large and discourant trees were seated as large as a large and discourant trees were seated as large as a large and discourant trees were seated as large as a large and discourant trees were seated as large as a large and discourant trees were seated as large as a large and discourant trees were seated where, walled in by lines of tall palms and evergreen trees were seated a large and distinguished assemblage of guests.

Evergreen trees ranged in line along the aisle on the right and on the left, extending from half way down the interior into the sanctuary, shut out what daylight came through the pictured windows and made a sort of euchanted bower. On either side the chance, was an artistic grouning of lotty palms, intermingled with the massive wall of trees which reached nigh up to the very arches of the ceiling.

Never at a wedding was there heard more brilliant music than J. Frank Donohue poured forth from the great cathedral organ. It invested the scene with a spirit of cheerfulness, of hope and of trumph such that all present felt its influence.

Yet one seemed scarcely to think of the music. Each one in the church was confessedly interested in the arrivals, and almost every one was looking for Mary Anderson, the famous sister of the young groom.

It was a magnificent wedding party.

The fine-looking young groom was attended by Mr. De Navarro and the bride by her distinguished father, who came in, of course, for a large share of attention.

Miss Edith Barrett, the younger sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The brides-maids were Miss Blanche Griffin, sister of the groom, and Miss Brever.

The bride's gown was heavily trained, of white satin, garnished with very handsome Valenciennes lace and blies of the valley. She were no jewels.

Archbishop Williams conducted the ritual, assisted by two of his prests. The ceremony was brist, being, with the omission of the elaborate nuptal mass, very much like that of the Episcopalian Church.

DR. CARLTON'S REAL WIFE.

She Believes He Will Go to Arkansas with Itis Lyan Girl.

INFECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. 1 LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 3.-Mrs. Frederick Carlton, wife of Dr. Frederick Carlton, who married a prominent young lady of I wan Christmas Day and then skipped with his new Christmas Day and then skipped with his new wife, is the proprietor of a small variety store at the corner of Race and Moody streets.

She was married nineteen years ago to Carlton and resided with him until about a year ago, when she left him on account of his visits to the Lynn woman.

She believes Carlton will go to Little Bock, Ark. where he has had business and where he shipped medicines at various times.

He has practised medicine in Mains and ran a lumber business in the upper partiou of Aroostock County. He was arrested six years ago in Houlton, Me., for trouble connected with a young girl.

Carlton is about sixty-five years old, and the Lynn woman's age is twenty-fire.

The Usual Crowd Take Advantage of the Beautiful Day.
